1 RFK Junior tries to float a distraction to Tylenol when the Deadly Serious Subject is RFK denial of the COVID 19 Vaccine to millions of Americans just as COVID 19 season ramps up Excerpt edited by RAWSEP Residents Against Wood Smoke Emission Particulates a 501C3 nonprofit organization for brevity and clarity Inside Medicine September 6 2025 Tylenol has entered the chat RFK Jr wants to link it to autism even though the best evidence says otherwise It is not pseudoscience But it is not settled either nor is it safe to assume otherwise Inside Medicine Newsletter Jeremy Faust MD September 6 2025 The Wall Street Journal reported that the RFK Junior forthcoming report on what causes autism will pin some of the blame on prenatal exposure to Tylenol Would that conclusion be accurate? Unlikely Is it a problem if this becomes our national stance on the issue? Yes Let us go Inside Medicine Not pseudoscience but nowhere near conclusive Unlike many RFK Junior community claims a link between autism and Tylenol is not complete garbage Note I will be using Tylenol here but this all applies to the generic versions too known as acetaminophen in the US and paracetamol in some other countries In fact researchers including at Harvard and Yale have published epidemiological studies pointing towards an association But a 2024 study from Sweden published in the Journal of the American Medical Association provided what looks to have been a devastating rebuttal to the thought The Swedish team elegantly cut through the noise by simply comparing outcomes among siblings That was a clever natural experiment and it was novel to this question Using that approach inherently removed many most? of the confounding variables such as the genetics of the mothers and other risk factors The Tylenol and autism link fell apart While even that study was not perfect there is convincing evidence that its methods were adequate to the task That paper does not definitively end the debate though honestly it might but it certainly says that the research showing a link between Tylenol and autism has a much steeper hill to climb before we would accept it let alone make national policy For one thing the Swedish researchers were able to replicate the findings of older studies and this is key when the sibling control method was not deployed That means that for whatever limitations the Swedish study had including that it only covered Tylenol that doctors prescribed rather than over the counter use its methods were similar enough to detect the association that previous researchers had reported So had they not deployed the sibling control method the Swedish team also would have found the link I find that to be compelling Why invoking the precautionary principle does not fly Let us say the Swedish study is inadequate that is neither incorrect nor sufficient to slam the door shut on the issue Why not tell pregnant women to avoid Tylenol just to be on the safe side the so called precautionary principle? The answer is twofold First crying wolf is inherently bad You know how that story ends Second it is not even clear that this advice would be erring on the safe side There is some data to suggest that fevers during pregnancy are linked to autism down the road and get this using fever reducing medications like Tylenol appears to break that link

If we believe that the guidance stemming from the precautionary principle would be reversed Other reasons why this is bad There are at least three reasons why it would be bad national policy to link autism and prenatal Tylenol use based on what we know now One is that this inappropriately blames mothers which may be the point But the other two reasons are more dangerous First it is likely that the HHS report on autism will also blame some vaccines We know this because RFK Junior had a pathetic meltdown on X/Twitter when a recent Danish study yet again debunked any link between vaccines and an array of neurological conditions By throwing in some non vaccine scapegoats it may look like the Secretary is being even handed rather than just taking on vaccines Second we seem to be entering a new phase of American science wherein cherry picked studies are used to prove something while others often better science by the way are ignored or wrongly dismissed That is not gold standard science Rather as my colleague Doctor Bill Hanage says in the place of evidence based policymaking it is policy based evidence making In a way what worries me is that this is not pseudoscience It is just not ready for primetime science and as above if we get this backwards we could cause as much or more harm This throws the precautionary principle out the window Tylenol deserves scrutiny though None of this negates another inconvenient truth by the way Tylenol all acetaminophen is probably the single most dangerous over the counter medication on the market Aspirin may be more dangerous but it is used less these days While millions of people routinely use the medication safely every year there are thousands of people who develop liver damage and hundreds who die from overdoses including many unintentional ones I refer you to the deeply reported and riveting new book No More Tears by Gardiner Harris You will be absolutely shocked by the Johnson and Johnson behavior on the issue of Tylenol safety and others over the years Should there be a more prominent warning to patients on the box? I would say yes Does that mean that we should accept some strange bedfellows and passively accept this purported link between autism and prenatal Tylenol use to achieve that goal? No Despite what this administration does—despite what it mistakenly believes is gold standard science genuinely rigorous scientific processes still matter

2 Utah YOU CAN ALL JUST DIE PART 14 the CRACKPOT NATION of RFK Junior and Trump Food dyes are an issue but are a minor issue Excerpt edited by RAWSEP Residents Against Wood Smoke Emission Particulates a 501C3 nonprofit organization for brevity and clarity Brian Moench Facebook Post September 5 2025 It is one thing if individual Americans want to commit themselves to a life warped and endangered by conspiracy theories 16th century level scientific nonsense and witchcraft But it is quite another thing if an entire country is forced to live under that witchcraft because its leaders are so dishonest ignorant grifters or blinded by their political ambition that they are willing to enforce a public policy on everyone else that will absolutely kill people on masse And that is where we are now in the United States Yes Big Pharma has too much of an influence on our public health and medical practice We should forbid direct to consumer advertising of drugs only one other country in the world allows that Food dyes are an issue but a minor one Yes Industrial Agriculture and processed foods are riddled with hazardous pesticides and other chemicals But the Trump Administration is doing nothing about those systematic flaws In fact RFK Junior appointees running the EPA and FDA are making that problem even worse But every day we see more evidence that The Trump top health official RFK Junior like Trump himself is a psychopath a crackpot a charlatan and a grifter Doctor Oz is also a crackpot and a grifter The Surgeon General of Florida Doctor Joseph Ladapo is also a crack pot under the supervision of Governor Ron DeSantis who is not a crack pot but a craven political opportunist Now that MAGA infected Florida is going to eliminate mandatory vaccines for school children I would be terrified to be a parent in Florida and I would move out of the state if at all possible Undoubtedly that insanity will spread to other MAGA states including Utah This is all an insane capitulation to Trump and Trumpism DeSantis knows better He is a Yale and Harvard Law School graduate not that the Ivy League does not produce morons fraudsters and people who are morally bankrupt But on the part of DeSantis it is purely a cynical political calculation not a decision based on a credible side of a legitimate controversy in science RFK Junior has replaced the scientific advisory panel on vaccines with even more crackpots Insurance companies will not pay for vaccines not recommended by the CDC Assuming his handpicked panel of likeminded crack pots do what we expect them to do then you can kiss good bye your opportunity to get a COVID booster or maybe even any other vaccine If you recall some big wig politicians in Utah cheered the Trump Justice Department dropping charges on a Utah physician charlatan who had thrown away vaccines and sold thousands of fake vaccination cards Doctor Michael Moore went so far as to inject saline into the arms of children at the request of parents so the children would think they had been vaccinated and he was celebrated by the Speaker of the House for Utah Mike Schultz and Republican Utah Senator Mike Lee among others as a hero Just like witchcraft got people killed in the Middle Ages 21st century witchcraft will get a lot of people killed The Surgeon General for Trump said mRNA vaccine technology saved over 2 million lives from COVID Of the over 1 million people who actually died from COVID it was not just the elderly and immunocompromised who succumbed or suffered long term morbidity and disability Blue states are beginning to form their own alliances on vaccines consistent with actual science for example their own CDC Do not count on Utah joining that alliance Democracy depends on people accepting the responsibility of a social contract When vaccination rates are low viruses like COVID that can mutate hang around longer and have a better opportunity for mutating into new forms prolonging and spreading the disease With our federal and state government dominated by the MAGA moral construct of I am the only person that matters combined with a revival of the medieval scientific sophistication of let us go burn some witches and kill all the cats welcome to the Dark Ages of Make America Great Again Here is a little homework assignment Trump loves firing people Call the White House switch board and tell Trump to fire RFK Junior as soon as possible ASAP 202 4456 1111

3 Wisconsin Vance comes to La Crosse to show us what reprehensible really means RAWSEP View From the Cambridge Dictionary What does reprehensible mean in simple words? Reprehensible means deserving of blame or strong criticism It is a strong word your mother might forgive you for doing something bad but something reprehensible? That is worse If a politician steals funds that are meant to provide care for the elderly that is reprehensible! Excerpt edited by RAWSEP Residents Against Wood Smoke Emission Particulates a 501C3 nonprofit organization for brevity and clarity The Capital Times September 5 2025 Many would benefit should Donald Trump meet an untimely end But no one would benefit more than JD Vance The man who now serves as vice president under the man he once compared to Hitler wants you to get used to the idea that he is itching to occupy the gold plated Oval

Office if Trump whose health is coming under increasing scrutiny suddenly keels over Yes terrible tragedies happen Vance told USA Today last week But I feel very confident the president of the United States is in good shape is going to serve out the remainder of his term and do great things for the American people And if God forbid there is a terrible tragedy I cannot think of better on the job training than what I have gotten over the last 200 days Vance is a political opportunist of the highest order He opposed Trump when he thought it was in his interest to do so When that did not work out he embraced the man he had earlier publicly called an idiot and derided as reprehensible So you would do well to remember that when Vance comes to Wisconsin to tout the benefits of Trump policies on ordinary working folks he is only doing what benefits Trump and consequently himself Vance came to La Crosse last week to talk up the benefits of The Trump One Big Beautiful Bill La Crosse is part of the House district of Republican US Representative Derrick Van Orden and Van Orden backed the bill despite that fact that it will devastate the farmers and low earning families in the Van Orden district Consequently Van Orden who narrowly hung onto his 3rd Congressional District seat in 2024 is on extremely shaky ground for 2026 The Trump big ugly bill slashes funding for Medicaid and hunger mitigation programs in order to fund massive tax cuts for Republican billionaires such as The Vance longtime benefactor Silicon Valley billionaire Peter Thiel we write Vance tried during his La Crosse visit to foster the fantasy that voters in the Van Orden district should be happy that rich people like um Vance Thiel and Trump will enjoy a windfall And he peddled the trickle down lie that there might be some minimal benefit to people who are not millionaires But remember Vance is a charlatan and the spin he spewed in La Crosse was a slurry of misinformation and outright lies Vance was right about Trump He possesses preternatural political instincts and he is adept at turning the trappings of office into a personal fortune But when it comes to governing he is an idiot And as he has demonstrated with his revenge politics his disregard for subjects or constituents and his brazen corruption he is certainly reprehensible While the calculating Vance is certainly not an idiot his self-serving embrace of The Trump ruination of America is certainly reprehensible

nonprofit organization for brevity and clarity The New York Times September 4 2025 There was a lot of yelling in the Senate on Thursday morning when the health and human services secretary RFK Junior came to defend the many boneheaded decisions he had made recently Those choices include his firing of Susan Monarez the director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention who says she was let go because she refused to approve people who had made anti vaccine statements to a vaccine advisory panel the Trump Food and Drug Administration restricting access to the Covid vaccine against the recommendations of scientists and his canceling of almost 500 million dollars in mRNA vaccine contracts Senator Ron Wyden of Oregon accused RFK Junior of filling his organization with a cavalcade of conspiracy theorists crackpots and grifters I had anticipated that Democrats like Wyden who have always been opposed to RFK Junior a longtime vaccine cynic would come out swinging What was a bit more unexpected was a quieter exchange between RFK Junior and Charles Grassley Republican of Iowa Grassley said that Iowa farmers had expressed concerns regarding some of the RFK Junior statements and asked him for a commitment to staying in his lane when it comes to regulating agriculture and the environment Unlike the RFK Junior combative responses about the corruption of the CDC officials he fired he talked about different priorities of his but assured Grassley that he was making sure the MAHA agenda is consistent with the agenda of farmers RFK Junior added We are consulting every stakeholder in the farm community in everything that we do The exchange is revealing because it suggests that RFK Junior is quite willing to play ball with Big Agriculture even at the risk of angering his grassroots Make America Healthy Again supporters Many of his MAHA faithful were already disappointed in the RFK Junior capitulation on the environment But in this September 3 2025 hearing the words were coming right out of the RFK Junior mouth not from a leaked draft that offered him plausible deniability if he said it was written by others There were other cracks in the foundation of the RFK Junior support A handful of Republican senators including Bill Cassidy and John Barrasso who are physicians asked tough questions about his statements about vaccines and the potential for changes Barrasso told RFK Junior There are real concerns that safe proven vaccines like measles like hepatitis B could be in jeopardy That could put Americans at risk and reverse decades of progress How I wish these senators had expressed these concerns in January when they voted to confirm RFK Junior for his post While the criticism of RFK Junior slowly grows from different sides I fear it is too little too late Considerable damage has already been done to American trust in vaccines under false pretenses A veterinarian recently told NBC News about people expressing their concerns to her about giving their pets vaccines out of fear that they will harm their pets causing autism or other cognitive issues When people are afraid of dog autism it is going to take a lot more than some harsh words at a little watched Senate hearing to get us back on track
